GENERAL ELECTION: JUST 21 DAYS OF THIS NONSENSE LEFT

Poor us, say MPs

RISHI Sunak's claim he was denied Sky TV led other politicians to talk about their childhoods.

Labour leader Keir Starmer said a broken window couldn't be fixed promptly in his household.

He added: "I am not pleading poverty but these are some of the issues that arise in a working-class family."

Green Party co-leader Carla Denyer said her parents drove second-hand cars.

Nige lob charge

A MAN has been charged with using threatening behaviour towards Nigel Garage after objects were thrown at him.

The Reform UK leader was campaigning on an open-top party battle bus in Barnsley town centre, South Yorks, when a cup narrowly missed him.

South Yorks Police said Josh Greally, 28, was bailed to appear before Barnsley magistrates on June 26.

Mistrust growing

TRUST in politicians has hit a new low as 45% think they put their party before the country, research shows.

In the 2019 election, the figure stood at around a third.

Polling guru John Curtice said: "Doubtless the political turmoil that has surrounded the fall of two prime ministers may well have served to undermine trust."

Tories a laugh

SATIRISTS fear a comedy black hole if the Tories lose the election – because there will be nobody to laugh at.

Tom Walker, aka news reporter Jonathan Pie, said: "The Conservatives have been throwing us pearls for six, seven, eight years now.

"Satirically and comedically, we're going to miss them a bit."

THAT'S A BIT RISH

DONATIONS racked up on a JustGiving page for "poor" Rishi "Biggles" Sunak after he revealed he never had Sky TV as a youngster.

Wags set up the joke appeal after the multi-millionaire's reply when asked if he'd ever gone without anything.

Donations were at almost £1,000 last night, with the cash going to the Trussell Trust.

NEW NAME: Seymour

A royal surprise for Jane

JANE Seymour didn't realise she had the same name as Henry VIII's third wife when she adopted it.

The actress, whose birth name is Joyce Frankenberg, was asked to change it by her agent.

Jane, 73, told the Getting Grilled with Curtis Stone podcast: "My agent said, 'Your name is too long, too foreign, and too difficult to spell, so we want something English.'

"So I kept the initial J... then somebody came up with the idea of Seymour. It took us a little moment [to realise] it was actually Henry VIII's middle wife."

Top Gun Part 3 is 'way off'

TOP Gun 3 won't be made for "for a while".

Tom Cruise reprised his role as a hotshot pilot in 2022's Top Gun: Maverick, 36 years after the original movie was made.

Though a third instalment in the box-office smash saga is in the works, producer Jerry Bruckheimer has stressed that fans will have to wait some time for the project to come over the horizon.

The 80-year-old said: "We've got some interesting ideas we've talked to Tom Cruise about, but we don't have a script yet. It will be a while."

STAR WANTS TO POPPIN FOR A CHAT

■ by STEVE HUGHES

DICK Van Dyke wants to make a comeback in a one-man show.

The legendary actor – who turned 98 in December – has revealed he has "a lot of stories to tell".

The Mary Poppins star told People: "Eighty years in the business, I have a lot of stories to tell.

"I thought I'd just do a one-man show, like this. Just sit and talk to the audience."

Earlier this month, Dick described his workout routine as his "secret weapon" doing three gym sessions a week.

Speaking to Entertainment Tonight, he said: "I recommend it to everybody. That's my secret weapon."

Dick admitted that he's had "such a good time" during his decades-long career in the movie business.

The Chitty Chitty Bang Bang actor added: "I'm 98. I have almost all my marbles. I can't remember what I had for breakfast."

EURO 2024 SWEEPSTAKE

IS it finally coming home?

The European Championship starts on June 14 and England have a great chance of glory in Germany. It would be the first trophy for the men's team since the World Cup in 1966.

And here's your chance to get a taste of success with our Euros sweepstake.

It's simple to play. Cut out the teams below and make a draw, noting who has drawn which team.

There are 24 teams. If you charge £3 per team, that gives you a prize pot of £72.

That could be £50 for the winner, £14 for second and £8 for third. Or it could be a winner-takes-all jackpot.

Good luck.

ENGLAND STARS'

NERVES: Supporter

Edge of the seat for fans

ENGLAND supporters' biggest "fanxieties" ahead of Euro 2024 include penalty shoot-outs, Harry Kane getting injured – and getting beaten by Scotland.

A poll of 1,606 Three Lions fans found 83% are worried about the team's prospects at the tournament in Germany.

Other concerns include scoring too early, a David Beckham 1998-style red card and creative star Phil Foden not starting.

Just 20% are confident of England's chances of ending 58 years of football hurt, by winning their first major tournament since the 1966 World Cup, BoyleSports found.

A spokesman for the gambling firm said: "The game can bring a fair amount of stress. Few supporters of an international team have had it all go their way and England fans will likely feel they've suffered more than most.

"And these experiences could explain why so many fans have worries about their prospects in Germany, but perhaps their fortunes will finally turn around."

Spanish red card to shirts

BRITS in Spain face a £500 fine for wearing footie shirts during the Euros.

The strict new public rules against smoking, drinking and wearing unsuitable clothes in some places is part of a crackdown on rowdy behaviour.

A spokesman for One Sure insurance said: "Majorca has seen multiple restaurants targeting clothes associated with drunken tourism.

"We've also seen that wearing a bikini or being bare chested away from the beach could land tourists fines of up to £500."

LIONS BEAT NUDES ONLY RULE IN SPA

■ by JERRY LAWTON IN GERMANY

ENGLAND have ordered a cover-up at their Euro 2024 team hotel – by kicking out a rule insisting they could only use the spa in the nude.

The Three Lions faced flashing their tackle at the Weimarer Land Spa and Golf resort, which normally has a naked-only policy in its fitness suite.

Guests can usually only use the spa, steam room and plunge pool if they agree to ditch their trunks.

But FA bosses – who have paid £850,000 to take over the 94-room hotel near Blankenhain, eastern Germany – did not want their superstars baring all.

And hotel bosses agreed to waive their "get-em-off" rule and allow players to wear their swimmers.

An FA spokesman confirmed the naturist rule had been dropped for the team.

A source close to the squad added: "We're aware of the rule about clothing in the spa but it won't apply while we're here.

"Shorts will be the norm."

DAILY STAR Says

Greedy uns of galaxy..

SPACE travel is a dream for many people.

But until now there have been a few aspects about seeing the cosmos in all its glory that have sounded a bit less appealing.

Going to the toilet for one sounds like it would be an, ahem, unique proposition up there.

But the main worry for many would be the grub.

And the issues are on a different planet from not being able to get your favourite teabag from a foreign supermarket.

It feels as if all they eat on space missions are special pills or those pouches that make Army rations look like gourmet dining.

However, all of that may be about to change.

Boffins now reckon spacemen and women should knock back red wine and scoff dark choc to stay healthy.

What great news for any budding gastronauts out there.

Now can someone please let us know when they sort the bogs out?

Grub snub a bit sc-off

YOU just wish sometimes that businesses would have a bit more common sense.

Just look at the row in Hampshire over a children's menu.

A woman claims a pub refused to serve her a kiddies' meal at the advertised price because she is an adult.

Even though she says surgery has left her unable to finish a bigger portion.

Now obviously it is wrong to make her pay more when she physically couldn't eat it.

But on a simpler level: why do these jobsworths care?

If someone wants a kids' meal and is willing to pay, it shouldn't matter.

It's the same amount of food on the plate and it also costs the restaurant the same.

What a load of old nonsense.

TAD ANNOYING: Lincoln and son, Alice Roosevelt, Amy Carter with dad Jimmy, Bush and daughters, Donald Trump Jr

MAD-ISON ABOUT THE BOY:

John Payne Todd, inset left, the stepson of the fourth US president James Madison, grew up to become a womanising alcoholic and also ran up huge gambling debts. His parents once had to bail him out of debtor's prison. Mother Dolley was forced to sell the family home to cover some of his debts too. She wrote: "Every feeling of my soul is wounded."

WORSE FOR WEAR:

Abraham Lincoln may have freed the slaves, but the president from 1861-1865, couldn't escape the pranks of his son Tad. The mischief-maker once tied goats to a sledge and rode it through a White House reception being hosted by the First Lady. He also held a sale of his parents' clothing on the front garden of the White House and sprayed visiting dignitaries with a fire hose.

VOODOO CHILD:

Theodore Roosevelt – in office from 1901 – said of his daughter, Alice: "I can be President of the United States, or I can attend to Alice. I can't possibly do both." She smoked and swore in public, stayed out late partying and always carried a pet snake. She was banned from The White House after burying a voodoo doll of incoming First Lady Helen Herron Taft in 1909.

BOOKED!

Amy Carter, the daughter of President Jimmy Carter who was in the White House in the seventies, was arrested multiple times over political protests, including outside the South African embassy in 1985. She had also caused a media fuss in 1977 when the nine-year-old was spotted reading books during toasts at a state dinner for the Canadian PM. Sounds sensible to us!

ROCKER SHOCKER:

Left-wing Patti Davis, below, the daughter of Ronald Reagan, opposed her dad over his conservative views on topics like nuclear weapons and went on demos against his policies. But she was also disowned by her mother Nancy after she moved in, unmarried, with Eagles guitarist Bernie Leadon. Patti, who later became an actress, also wrote an explosive tell-all memoir about growing up with the Reagans and posed nude for Playboy in 1994.

DOUBLE TROUBLE:

George W Bush, son of George HW Bush, was fined for drink-driving as a young man. In 2001, his 19-year-old twins Barbara and Jenna were busted for underage drinking and using false ID to buy booze. It was said that the cheeky pair also used to try to lose their Secret Service detail.

TRUMPED UP:

Donald Trump Jr, son of convicted felon and big orange man-baby Donald Trump, caused controversy in 2012 when photos of him hunting in Africa emerged – including posing with a dead leopard. In 2016 he met with a Russian lawyer believing she had info on Trump's presidential opponent Hillary Clinton.

Mozzie disease warning

BRITS travelling abroad this summer have been warned to watch out for mosquitos spreading dengue fever in Europe.

Boffins at the European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control have blamed warmer temperatures for a rise in cases of the infection as well as West Nile virus.

Tourists have been warned dengue fever is on the increase in Cyprus and Madeira – and last year a British woman caught the infection in Nice, southern France.

There were 130 cases of dengue reported last year in the European Union in destinations such as Ibiza, Rome and northern Italy.

Andrea Ammon, ECDC director, said: "Europe is seeing how climate change is creating favourable conditions for invasive mosquitoes to spread into previously unaffected areas and infect more people."

£225m golfer divorce is off after 20 days

by CHRISTOPHER BUCKTIN

RORY McIlroy and his wife Erica Stoll have called off their divorce.

The news broke hours before the golfer starts his bid for the US Open in North Carolina today.

Irishman McIlroy, 35 – worth £225million – said: "Erica and I have realised that our best future was as a family together.

"Thankfully, we have resolved our differences and look forward to a new beginning."

The couple had a daughter, Poppy, in 2020.

On Tuesday the golfer filed papers to dismiss the divorce which he announced last month.

The May 13 petition gave his wife 20 days to file a counter-claim or risk having the court grant the divorce by default.

But 35-year-old Erica failed to lodge any response or even register an attorney by the June 2 deadline.

Cocaine ruffling feathers

COCAINE smugglers are putting rare birds at risk of extinction.

They are clearing remote areas of forest to build roads and landing strips for their planes.

Two-thirds of the areas most important to forest birds – including 67 types of migratory birds that breed in the US and Canada, and overwinter in Central America – are in danger, according to a report in the journal Nature Sustainability.

A team from the Centre for Avian Population Studies at the Cornell Lab of Ornithology in New York, said 90% of the world's population of endangered golden-cheeked warblers winter in the areas being disrupted.

Also at risk of being ousted are 70% of the world's golden-winged warblers and Philadelphia vireos.

A.I. HALVES DODGY DIAGNOSES

THREAT: Cancer cell

ARTIFICIAL Intelligence is better at spotting prostate cancer than hospital doctors.

The tech has been taught to diagnose the disease using more than 10,000 medical scans.

And using AI, the number of "false positives" – where patients were wrongly diagnosed – was halved when compared with human experts.

An international team based in The Netherlands is behind the tech.

They pitted it against 62 human radiologists drawn from 20 countries.

And they reckon AI could now help

■ by WILL STONE

to reduce overdiagnosis and prevent unnecessary surgery for what is the most common cancer among men.

The researchers hope in the long run the new technique "could potentially support the diagnostic pathway of prostate cancer management".

A paper published in The Lancet Oncology said AI was also found to be just as effective as radiologists at picking up severe cancers, based on checks carried out to see how patients fared six years after diagnosis.

CRIME: Wolverhampton

Capital of knife horrors

THE West Midlands is the UK's knife crime capital, latest figures show.

There were 180 offences per 100,000 members of the population last year, a rate that was 8.3% higher than in London.

The capital recorded 165 offences per 100,000 in the same period.

Last year saw one in four police forces, including West Midlands and the Metropolitan Police, record their highest-ever knife crime rates.

The analysis comes as two 12-year-old boys were convicted of the murder of Shawn Seesahai, 19, in Wolverhampton.

They are believed to be the youngest defendants to have been found guilty of murder since Jon Venables and Robert Thompson were convicted of killing James Bulger, two, in 1993.

PROBLEM: Boozing

Record alcohol deaths

ALCOHOL-related deaths are at record levels – with the worst affected cities in the North and Midlands.

Drinking killed 21,911 people in 2022, the latest Public Health England figures showed.

That is 4.5% higher than in 2021 when 20,969 alcohol-related deaths were recorded in England.

And it is 12% higher than the 19,530 deaths in 2019, before the pandemic.

Blackpool has the most booze deaths with 73.7 per 100,000, followed by Derby (60.7), Leicester (57.8), South Tyneside (57.7), and Sandwell, West Mids (56.7).

UK Addiction Treatment Group, which released the data, said the figures show "a severe public health issue that demands immediate intervention".

IT'S ELV-ISH

We'll bring The King back to life says team behind ABBA avatars

by JAMES CAVEN

ELVIS Presley could be back in the building with a show by the makers of ABBA Voyage.

Pophouse, which created the gigs with the group as virtual avatars, wants to do the same with The King.

The Swedish firm has reportedly held talks with the owners of the rights to Presley's work and image.

It would see the Hound Dog star, who died in 1977, brought back as a computer-generated double.

ABBA singer Björn Ulvaeus, 79, the co-founder of Pophouse, told a conference in Berlin he "would like to work with Elvis".

Another show, Elvis Evolution created by the UK's Layered Reality, is already planned to open in London in November.

Sony Music, which owns the rights to the singer's work and Authentic Brands Group, which owns his image, were asked to comment.

Madcap Pad off to Peru

EVERYONE'S fave marmalade-loving bear is back for more sticky fun in the trailer for Paddington In Peru.

The third film in the series is out in November as Paddington "returns to Peru to visit his beloved Aunt Lucy" with his London family.

Hugh Bonneville, below left, is back as Mr Brown, while Olivia Colman is a guitar-playing nun, below right.

KEVIN Jonas underwent surgery to remove skin cancer from his face and has shared a video of himself getting the procedure.

The Jonas Brothers singer told his followers: "So today I am getting a basal-cell carcinoma removed from my head.

"Yes, that is an actual little skin cancer guy that has started to grow.

"And now I have to get surgery to remove it, so here we go."

Kevin later posted he was on his way home to heal and urged his fans to "get those moles checked".

War of Willis

BUSTED'S Matt Willis has admitted he uses exercise to punish himself for his past addiction troubles.

Speaking on his podcast On The Mend, the drummer shared he has an "inner self-hatred" over the person he used to be.

Matt added: "I found that at times I have been using diet and exercise as punishment and really whipping myself with it.

For instance, I had to stop using my activity trackers because if I look at it and I'm not hitting the goals I want, it can really affect my mental health and my state.

"I've spent the last 10 to 13 years trying to get rid of that other guy, that drunk, using, loser who I hate. He pops into my head all the time and looks at me in the mirror and whispers in my ear."

WIRED WORLD

OASIS have released the previously unheard Columbia (Sawmills Outtake).

It's the first single to be taken from the Definitely Maybe 30th anniversary deluxe editions, which is out on August 30.

WIRED WORLD

RAPPER AJ Tracey has shared his oddest fan experience.

He told the Red Carpet Treatment podcast: "They wrote a punk letter and it said something really weird. 'I love you and you're going to have my kids.'"

THE weather may not have got the memo but P!nk has officially declared it's summer time.

She Got The Party Started in Cardiff with the first night of her Summer Carnival Tour.

And despite battling food poisoning just hours before, it was a typical stunt-filled performance from the American star.

Perhaps P!nk could even be tempted into moving there, as she exclaimed: "Cardiff, Wales, I freaking love it here!"

★ Matty, who has also dated Taylor Swift, shared her post and his actress mum Denise Welch let slip they've been engaged for "a few weeks".

JIN & TONIC AS BTS STAR RETURNS..

MEMBERS of BTS reunited to celebrate bandmate Jin returning home from South Korean military service.

Several members of the K-pop group were granted temporary leave from their mandatory service in order to give Jin – the oldest one – a warm welcome home yesterday.

RM even rocked up with his saxophone in hand and started playing their hit Dynamite in celebration.

All of BTS will have completed their enlistment by June 2025.

Leigh-Anne on the road

LEIGH-Anne Pinnock's debut solo show went so well that she announced an entire tour.

Following her incredible performance at London's Lafayette venue, the Little Mix star revealed she'll be on the road in October visiting Dublin, Birmingham, London and Manchester.

Leigh-Anne also surprised her fans by releasing new single Nature, saying of the track: "This is another really special song that came from my writing camp in Jamaica and I'm super proud of it."

Definitely Maybe a Power couple

CAST'S JOHN WANTS LIAM COLLAB

HOT on the heels of Liam Gallagher's John Squire collaboration, could a John Power hook-up be next?

Power's band Cast are supporting Liam on his Definitely Maybe tour and he's trying to convince the Oasis legend to record together.

John said: "I would love to write a song with Liam. In fact, many times when I'm just sitting in a room on my own, writing something, there's been quite a few songs over the years where I've thought, 'Liam would sound amazing on this.'

"That would be something because he's a phenomenal singer and he has a fierce, wonderful spirit that's inspiring to a lot of people. We've got a history anyway. Our musical paths have meandered from early La's to early Cast all the way through. There's deep respect there and a story to be told.

"Who knows what the future holds? I'm going to see him and can't wait to hang out."

John is hoping Cast can pick up new fans on Liam's tour and remind gig-goers just how many great songs they have.

Power, who released Cast's seventh studio album Love Is The Call in February, said: "We've got the ticket on the biggest tour in Britain. Every band must have been like, 'Can we get on that?' We've got the majority of that tour. There's going to be a lot of people at those shows to listen to Liam sing Definitely Maybe, which is a seminal record.

"And there are going to be a lot of people there who have maybe forgotten that they were into Cast when they hear Alright, Sandstorm, Finetime, and we'll drop in a couple of new ones.

"It's a fantastic opportunity to connect with people who haven't discovered us and people who are fans but forgot.

"We can get them to remember how great a band Cast still are and can be."

Smash Tarquin is jailed

A CLIMATE change activist who smashed a glass revolving door at JPMorgan's European HQ has been jailed for 10 months.

Amy Pritchard, 38, and four others caused more than £300,000 of damage at the US bank's City of London offices during an Extinction Rebellion protest.

At Inner London Crown Court, Pritchard, of Walthamstow, was jailed and the four others handed suspended sentences.

Ace, 17, 'already has fortune in the bank'

WINNER: Littler

■ by DAN BURNHAM

LUKE Littler has been dubbed "sport's fastest millionaire".

Darts legend Dennis Priestley thinks the 17-year-old already has £1million in the bank after his stellar rise.

Littler has bagged the Premier League title and notched up victories at both the Austrian and Belgian darts opens.

Those three top spots netted him £335,000 in winnings and he bagged a further £20,000 from his Bahrain Masters triumph.

Two-time world champ Priestley said: "Luke Littler will already be a millionaire thanks to his prize money as well as all the sponsorship deals he has been signing outside of darts.

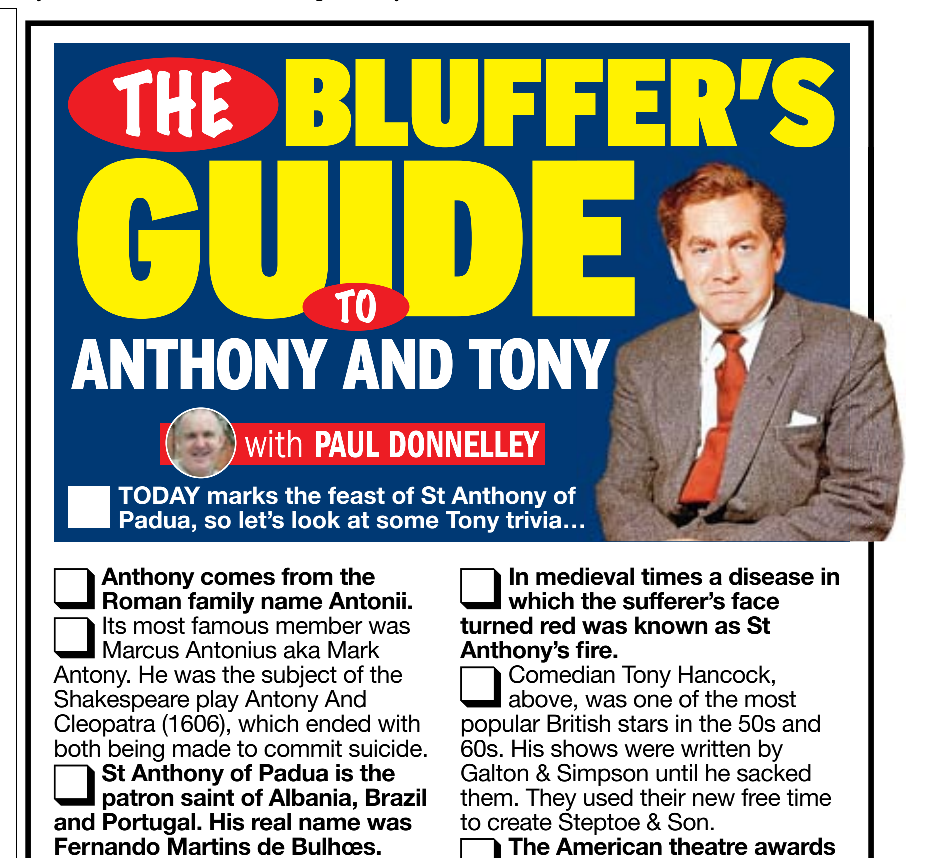

"He's done all this just within six months, he has been the fastest millionaire darts player of all time and probably the fastest millionaire in all of sport, at the age of just 17."

Priestley says The Nuke has changed darts like Mike Tyson changed boxing in the 80s, when he KO'd his first 19 opponents.

He added: "Luke Littler has exploded on to the scene like a young Mike Tyson, who would often defeat his opponents on fear alone.

"There is that fear factor around Littler."

...AND DON'T FORGET THE ANTS

☐ Ant McPartlin came to public attention as PJ in the children's drama Byker Grove, although his TV debut was on the Why Don't You? show. In 2018, he received Britain's highest penalty for drink-driving – £86,000.

Cat coin drama

A CAT owner has been hit with a £3,500 vet bill after her ginger tom swallowed a 5p coin.

Millie Farrow said her three-year-old cat Pumpkin had the coin lodged in his digestive tract and needed hour-long emergency surgery.

Millie, of Norwich, added: "We thought he was going to die. He's lucky to be alive. The coin couldn't pass past his pancreas so the vets had to remove it."

Isle be leaving two

PATSY Field and Munveer Jabbal have been axed from Love Island.

The pair were voted out in last night's show but insist there are no hard feelings.

Patsy said: "That's the way the cookie crumbles."

Munveer, inset, added: "I can't look back and say I wish this happened or wish that happened because I had a good time.

"I made some really good friends."

The pair are backing Ciaran Davies and Nicole Samuel to win, with Patsy adding: "They suit so well."

★ THE Crown creator Peter Morgan said he was once willing to "not have Diana" in the show over fears no one could do the princess's life justice on screen.

NOISES: Merchant

Stephen sex trick

STEPHEN Merchant tricked his parents into filming a raunchy TV sex scene for his hit show The Outlaws.

The comic asked Ron and Jane to react to dubbed "noises" in a scene with his lawyer character Greg Dillard.

Merchant confessed: "I didn't tell them they were reacting to sex noises. I just said there were some noises."

COMIC REWIND

★ OUTNUMBERED'S child stars reunite to launch Comic Relief's new YouTube series Rewind.

Ramona Marquez, Daniel Roche and Tyger Drew-Honey, who played Karen, Ben and Jake said the sitcom was an "amazing experience".

★ The show, which ran from 2007 to 2014 and also starred Hugh Dennis and Claire Skinner, will return for a one-off festive episode this year.

Marquez, now 23, said: "I do sometimes watch Outnumbered again. It's comforting to see it, even though I was in it!" Drew-Honey, 28, said: "It was such an iconic show that resonated with so many people."

★ The Rewind series celebrates specials, performances, and entertainment made for Comic Relief over the years. Drew-Honey added: "Filming the Comic Relief specials was always a unique experience."

The first episode in the three-part series airs at 4pm on Sunday. Watch it at youtube.com/comicrelief

FANS' 'GRIEF' AT SHOW'S AXE

EMOTIONAL: Kylie at the Neighbours finale

NEIGHBOURS fans were crippled by grief when the soap was axed by Channel 5.

Many felt pain on the same level as losing a loved one when it was announced the long-running soap was ending, research has found.

Dr Adam Gerace, who worked on the study, said: "The conclusion of Neighbours provided a rare and timely opportunity to examine fans' grief experiences following the end of potentially very established parasocial relationships.

■ by ED GLEAVE

Greater grief and loss reactions were experienced by fans whose motives for watching involved being entertained and exposed to different lifestyles, who felt a stronger fan connection to the series and who formed stronger parasocial empathic relationships with their favourite character."

Dr Gerace, a senior lecturer in the College of Psychology at CQ University, Australia, added: "Fan reactions to the conclusion of Neighbours suggested that they were processing both the end of the television series and their relationships with its characters.

"They were demonstrating grief reactions similar to those involved in the end of real-life relationships, including attempts at closure and gratitude for what they had experienced through these relationships."

Neighbours has since been saved by streaming service Amazon Freevee and is back on screens.

Lemon aid trick for Kath

KATHERINE Ryan has revealed the cheeky lemon trick she used to enhance her chest.

Grace Dent asked the comic on her Comfort Eating podcast: "Before the boob job, did you keep things in your bra?"

Katherine, 40, replied: "Of course I did. I think a visible nipple, like an erect nipple, is really aesthetically pleasing.

"So if you cut off the ends of a lemon, just the end, and you put the rind in your bra, that makes a really convincing nipple."

Archie's saviour of bees

A YOUNG beekeeper has launched a campaign to turn roundabouts into pollinator habitats.

Archie Cridland, 10, wrote to 120 councils – and even King Charles – in his campaign to convert "ugly wasteland to healthy wildflower areas".

Surrey County Council is now backing Archie's Save Our Bees campaign.

Archie, from Addlestone, said: "Local businesses will sponsor a roundabout by not just putting up a sign but also putting wildflower meadows on them."

OWNER SAVED BY REAL LIFE 'LASSIE'

HERO: Brandon and pet dog Blue

Dog raises alarm after ravine crash

A HEROIC dog became a real-life Lassie when he saved his owner after he crashed into a ravine.

by ISOBEL DICKINSON

Loyal whippet Blue copied the antics of the TV and movie collie to save badly injured Brandon Garrett.

Brandon was driving with Blue and his three other dogs on a remote road when he careered off an embankment.

He managed to crawl free from the wrecked truck with his pets but was too badly injured to reach the road. To raise the alarm, Blue ran back to the campsite four miles away where Garrett had been staying with a friend.

Garrett's brother, Tyree, said: "He did the right thing, he let everybody know that there was something wrong."

Tyree and pals joined locals in a search for Garrett and saw his truck at the bottom of the ravine in Oregon, US.

He added: "The first place I pulled up to I saw his pickup truck about 100 feet down to the bottom. I thought for sure he was a goner."

Garrett was rescued after he heard a sheriff's deputy calling his name – and was airlifted to hospital.

Tyree said that his brother was badly bruised and battered, and two of his dogs suffered broken bones.

He said of Garrett's miraculous escape: "Brandon is a dog lover – it's just amazing."

Kevin the Greatest Dane

KEVIN the Great Dane lives up to his breed after being crowned the world's tallest living dog.

by EMILY BRAEGER

He measures 3ft 2in from his paws to the top of his head and lives with Tracy and Roger Wolfe.

Tracy said that "gentle giant" Kevin, three, is scared of most things, despite his size. She said: "He is terrified of the vacuum. He will jump and run to get away from it."

The Wolfe family of West Des Moines, Iowa, knew he was going to be big from the start as he quickly grew "not out, but up", Tracy said. By the age of one, the family, including children Alexander and Ava, were sure he was one of the tallest dogs in the world.

Previous record holder, Zeus, from Texas, died last year from complications following treatment for cancer.

MUM'S PUB MEAL CAN'T BE KIDDING

A PUB-goer had a row with staff as they refused to serve her a kid's meal – just like the scene in Ricky Gervais's After Life.

■ by KATE NELSON

Marshalla Cullum ordered a children's roast at the Forester Arms. But the waitress told her she had to get an adult meal.

Marshalla can't finish bigger portions after having bariatric surgery in 2021.

The care coordinator, 48, said: "I spoke with the manager and she said no. If I wanted to eat I'd have to buy an adult's meal. They basically said I was being stingy and I could order a child's meal size but pay for an adult."

The row is similar to a scene in Netflix's After Life where Tony, played by Gervais, inset, takes his nephew out for tea and orders two child's portions – only for the waitress to insist it's only for kids.

He gets around it by saying the lad's hungry – then scoffs one.

The Forester Arms, near Fordingbridge, Hants, declined to comment but owner Julie Daniels labelled the complaint "pointless" in emails to Marshalla.

She wrote: "We aren't prepared to sell you a child's meal as despite the size of your stomach you are not a child. END OF."

TRIP HOST: Jong Un

Tyrants' 'love-in' blooms

KIM Jong Un has hailed North Korea's blossoming relationship with Russia amid reports President Vladimir Putin will soon visit.

Military, economic and other co-operation between the countries has sharply increased since the tubby tyrant met Mad Vlad in Russia last September.

North Korea is believed to have supplied artillery, missiles and other weapons to Russia to support its war in Ukraine.

Russia has given advanced military technologies and economic aid.

Jong Un has been pushing to boost partnerships with Russia and China in a united front against the US.

The North Korea leader wrote to Putin yesterday, describing the pair's "unbreakable relationship of comrades-in-arms."

VILLAGE: Styles

Taylor's boost to Haz tour

TAYLOR Swift's sell-out UK tour has proved an unexpected boost for her ex-boyfriend Harry Styles' home village.

Thousands of Styles' fans have visited Holmes Chapel, Cheshire, for a Harry's Home Tour, where they can see where the singer grew up.

But organisers have had to add more tour dates – as Swifties are also swarming the village while she's on the UK-leg of her sold-out The Eras Tour.

They are able to retrace the footsteps of Taylor's visit to Holmes Chapel with Harry when they were dating in 2012.

The Shake It Off singer, 34, will perform three nights at Liverpool's Anfield stadium this weekend, just 39 miles from the village.

Annabel mugger trauma

ANNABEL Croft said she was left "totally traumatised" after a masked mugger snatched her phone.

The ex-tennis player and Strictly star, 57, said she was targeted while waiting for a taxi in London.

She told ITV's This Morning: "I was aware of this bike coming towards me... and I just thought it was a young lad on a bike.

"The next thing I knew he very skilfully snatched the phone out of my hand.

"I screamed, I was totally shocked by it and he rode off. And then incredibly, he dropped the phone and I went running after him."

She added: "My instinct, quite wrongly, was to chase after him.

"I was so lucky that there was a very nice gentleman across the street that could see how distressed I was and he helped me."

Granny Shirley's Brit gifts

SHIRLEY Ballas is keeping her US-based grandson in touch with his British roots by getting him clothes from M&S and Harrods.

The Strictly judge, 63, became a grandma in November when her son Mark, also a professional dancer, welcomed baby Banksi into the world with singer-songwriter BC Jean.

She told Woman's Weekly: "He has all the British clothes.

"He's got a bib from Harrods, clothes from M&S, and even a British-themed cushion.

"The other day he was watching football with his dad wearing a full Liverpool kit."

Shirley also predicted that Banksi would be "singing before he's dancing" because he loves listening to his dad play guitar while his mum sings.

SELLERS CASH IN ON CHAS NOTES

King's first wads are fetching a fortune

CHEEKY entrepreneurs are listing new King Charles bank notes for hundreds of pounds online – way more than their face value.

■ by GABRIEL ROBERTS

The new £5, £10, £20 and £50 notes featuring Charles' portrait were released by the Bank of England less than a week ago.

Avid currency collectors queued up outside the Bank of England in central London on their release day to snatch them up.

But some have stuck theirs straight on eBay in an attempt to profit from the notes.

Four new tenners are listed on eBay for £500 – £460 more than they are worth.

£5 notes are listed at double their value, while five new twenties are priced at £189.99 and five of the new £50 notes – worth £250 in total – are listed at £529.99.

One £4,820 listing of the new 50p coin, minted in December 2022, seriously warns potential buyers on the eBay listing: "No time-wasters, thanks."

SHOELESS: Hiker El

Barefoot feats on the peak

A WOMAN who hikes barefoot up mountains is on a high after her latest daring challenge.

El Robertson, 27, says she has "super-strong feet".

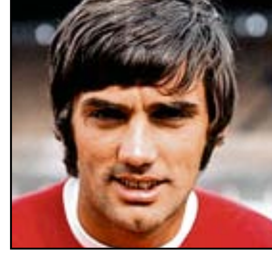

She attempted to climb five mountains consecutively in Wales last year but "tearfully" called off the challenge because she was in agony.

But the TikTok star has now conquered the 917-metre (3,010ft) Tryfan in Snowdonia, north Wales.

El, a compliance analyst from Cardiff, said: "I've never enjoyed climbing as much as I loved climbing Tryfan – it made me feel strong."

She added: "I've got a big grin on my face even thinking about it."

El began barefoot hiking in 2021 after "discovering the health benefits" of not wearing any shoes.

UNITED ICON: George

Bestie's top nets £13,300

A GEORGE Best shirt worn during his greatest-ever season at Manchester United sold for £13,300.

The football icon, who died in 2005 aged 59, netted 32 goals in the 1967-68 campaign and was crowned the European Footballer of the Year.

His red jersey with white trim and a number 11 on the back was described as being in "good condition" despite having a hole near the collar.

Among the items the shirt came with were a pair of shorts Best wore in a training session, match programmes plus tickets for the United v Benfica 1968 European Cup final.

It was sold by Hyperion Auctions in St Ives, Cambs.

A spokesman said: "The jersey is still in good condition for its age."

8M Poundland

SHOP FOUNDER'S MANOR ON SALE

by ADAM DUTTON and PAUL JENKINS

A MANSION bought by the founder of Poundland has gone on the market for almost £8million.

Ludstone Hall was owned by the late Keith Smith, who set up his discount empire in the 1990s with his son Steve.

Steve is now selling the 1607 manor house, which is set within 177 acres and surrounded by countryside in Claverley, Shrops.

The £7.75m nine-bedroom pile has a pool – plus a museum dedicated to Poundland.

Steve said he and his siblings decided to part with the home which Keith, who died in 2022, bought in 1997 for £2.5m, so another family can cherish it as they did. He added: "My mum and dad really loved their time at the estate which can be seen in the amount of money they invested in the property – it really is the home that Poundland built."

APPY WITH OUR 83 GROUP CHATS

THE average social media user is part of 83 different group chats, a study says.

More than half speak to others more through online group messaging than they do phone calls.

The most common group names include "holibobs", "hen huns" and "famalam", with those who use WhatsApp (86%) being part of 10 groups on average.

■ by LUCY BRIMBLE

Family, friend groups and planning for a night out are the most common themes.

Vodafone did the study in partnership with Prof Robin Dunbar. He said: "Research shows that having a small, cohesive group of friends and contacts massively improves our mental health and wellbeing – and even our physical health."

Plonk tech is wizard

A DEVICE that turns plonk into a "vintage" in seconds has been backed by a leading wine institution.

The Winewizard tech, which replicates the ageing process with oxygen, has been recognised by Plumpton College – the leading research and education hub for wine in the UK.

Plumpton wine division's Dr Akshay Baboo said: "We were astonished by how effective it is."

Ruff sting guide

DOGS are curious creatures that often end up sticking their noses into things.

Unfortunately this can sometimes result in a nasty surprise, such as a bee sting. In most cases, pets only experience mild symptoms and stings can be managed at home.

Here, PDSA vet nurse Nina Downing shares what to do if your pooch is stung...

- Place the edge of a credit card under the venom sac and gently scrape out the sting.
- Place a cold, damp cloth on the area to soothe skin and reduce swelling.
- Speak to your vet about giving your pooch anti-histamines.

They can advise which medication and dosage is right for your pet.

It's also important to monitor your pooch for signs of an allergic reaction as Nina says: "Allergic reactions are fairly rare, but they can happen. Signs include hives or a rash, swelling, difficulty breathing, vomiting, diarrhoea or collapse."

If you notice any of the above, or your pet is stung in the throat or mouth, contact your vet.

DAD PUP FOR FUN

FATHER'S Day is all about saying thank you to the special men in our lives, and that includes the doggy dads!

If you're wondering how to celebrate with man's best friend this Sunday, here are some fun ideas...

- Go exploring. Take the whole family out for a trip to the beach, or venture on a new trail in the woods. He'll love getting outdoors and spending some quality time with his canine companion.
- Go for a beer. There's nothing like a refreshing pint after a long day of exploring so why not take Dad out for a beer? Many pubs and breweries welcome our four-legged friends, and even have treats for them too.
- Have a movie night. Grab some popcorn and a beer and let Dad put his feet up. It's the perfect excuse for him to snuggle up on the sofa with his four-legged friend.
- Get a card and a gift. A special card and present from his favourite furry friend is a must, and there are so many wonderful options for you to choose from.

EVENT OF THE WEEK

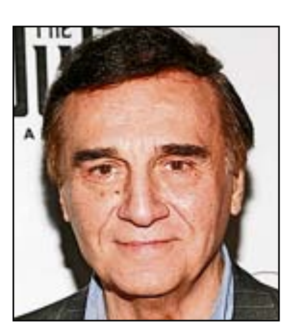

Woofstock – Powderham Castle, Exeter June 14-16

TAKING place over the weekend, this doggy festival is a fun day out for the whole family.

Owners can enjoy live music and canine agility demonstrations, while pups can take part in a range of activities. There will also be a variety of tasty treats for both humans and dogs, and plenty of opportunities for shopping.

MOB ROLE: Lo Bianco

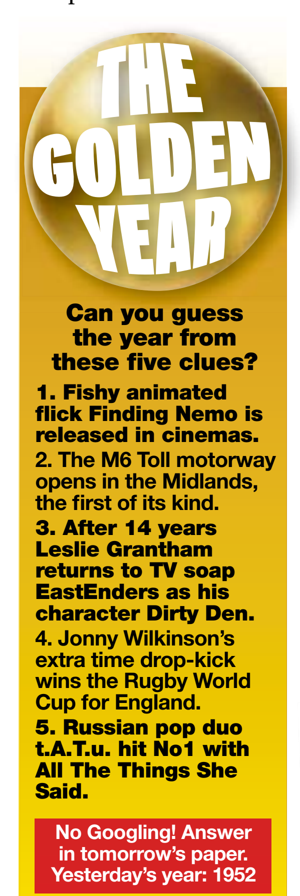

Film star Tony is dead, 87

THE French Connection star Tony Lo Bianco has died at the age of 87.

The actor, who played mobster Salvatore "Sal" Boca opposite Gene Hackman and Roy Scheider in the Oscar-winning action thriller, had been battling cancer.

The US actor worked with Hollywood stars including Richard Gere, Sir Anthony Hopkins, Clint Eastwood and Burt Reynolds.

A statement from Lo Bianco's representative said: "Tony Lo Bianco passed away after a battle with prostate cancer."

Can you guess the year from these five clues?

1. Fishy animated flick Finding Nemo is released in cinemas.
2. The M6 Toll motorway opens in the Midlands, the first of its kind.
3. After 14 years Leslie Grantham returns to TV soap EastEnders as his character Dirty Den.
4. Jonny Wilkinson's extra time drop-kick wins the Rugby World Cup for England.
5. Russian pop duo t.A.T.u. hit No1 with All The Things She Said.

No Googling! Answer in tomorrow's paper. Yesterday's year: 1952

Patients' waits hell

MORE than 380,000 cancer patients have not been treated on time since 2015.

The NHS target of 85% of people starting treatment for their cancer within 62 days was last met in December of that year.

The Royal College of Radiologists said delays in cancer care are becoming "routine", with nearly half of cancer centres experiencing them weekly.

Tech news

JUST in time for the start of Euro 2024, Samsung is offering a free soundbar if you buy one of its new TVs.

★ THREE new Xbox consoles are coming soon.

Microsoft has announced the launch of an Xbox Series X 1TB Digital Edition, which ditches the physical CD drive.

There's also an Xbox Series X Galaxy Black Special Edition, which gets a whopping 2TB hard drive and a new paint job, plus you'll soon be able to buy an Xbox Series S in Robot White with 1TB of storage.

Along with those, Xbox fans have a swathe of new games to look forward to.

Call Of Duty Black Ops 6, which features all the explosions and bombast you'd expect, will arrive this year.

We're also getting a new Doom game for the first time in years called The Dark Ages.

Assassin's Creed Shadows launches on November 15 and the impressive-looking Indiana Jones and the Great Circle title is also on its way.

★ IF you just happen to be in Liverpool this weekend to watch Taylor Swift's Eras Tour, you might want to pop to Currys.

The tech retailer is giving away a free pair of JBL noise-cancelling headphones at its Aintree store to the first 100 dads that show a valid concert ticket.

The giveaway was launched to celebrate Father's Day.

★ MILLIONS of O2 customers are getting a free upgrade aimed at blocking annoying spam.

The UK network is rolling out Brand ID, which it hopes will reduce the amount of calls you receive from unknown numbers.

The technology is being rolled out automatically to millions of O2 pay-monthly and business customers over the coming months.

REV UP FOR F1 REALISM

EA SPORTS F1 24
★★★★☆ from £69.99

ELECTRONIC Arts really has doubled down on the authenticity with this year's F1 game.

But developer Codemasters hasn't forgotten that, between the tyre and gear tweaks, the authentic feel of the engines and the desire for track recreation perfection, players still expect a video game.

And the resulting title here is a great mix of realistic immersion with still, very much, a gamer's game to enjoy at the heart of it.

We can access the world's 20 best racers and take them on our personal single-player journey through the F1 Grand Prix circuit.

Several tracks in the game have been improved, including Silverstone and Spa, to make them look even more like the real things.

Hit the road with F1 24 and you won't be disappointed.

EA Sports F1 24 (Xbox S/X, PS5, PC £69.99)

Apple AI will make us all look smarter

IPHONE IS 'INTELLIGENT'

A VERY smart free upgrade is coming to iPhones later this year.

It's called Apple Intelligence and it will help you write emails, organise your messages and even create unique emojis thanks to a feature called Genmoji.

Want all your photos to look picture-perfect? Apple's feature-packed update will also remove unwanted photo bombers and add some instant sparkle to your holiday snaps.

It will transcribe recordings into editable text, generate instant images from a simple description you give it and will clean up your inbox so you'll only see important messages.

Apple's Siri smart assistant is also getting smarter and will be able to perform a swathe of tasks simply by you asking. For example, if a friend texts you their new address in messages, just say: "Add this address to contact cards," and it will be taken care of.

Or say: "Send the photos from the barbecue on Saturday to Dad," and Siri will find those photos and do the rest.

It can even scan emails and messages for things such as flight details that may have been sent to you.

"We're thrilled to introduce a new chapter in Apple innovation. Apple Intelligence will transform what users can do with our products – and what our products can do for our users," said Tim Cook, the company's CEO.

It will arrive on certain devices – including the iPhone 15 Pro – in the autumn so watch this space.

★ BRITISH Apple fans can finally go virtual from next month.

The US tech giant has just confirmed its Vision Pro headset will go on sale in UK stores from July 12.

★ These smart specs mix the real and virtual worlds together, allowing you to see your surroundings while interacting with apps and games using your hands as the controllers.

Start saving now – it will cost £3,499 to own.

DOC ROLE: Lenny

Star got a Rush

LENNY Rush is teasing that his arrival on Doctor Who involves jaw-dropping effects.

The actor will be making his debut in the two-part series finale as new villain Morris.

He said: "I've never worked on a show with so many cool effects. The stand-out for me were the sets.

"They were amazing and are exactly how you see them on screen. I can't believe how much work goes into building them."

Watch it on Saturday at 6.30pm on BBC One.

LEWIS Cope and Brahmdeo Shannon Ramana have quit Emmerdale. The stars, who play couple Nicky Milligan and Suni Sharma, have filmed their final scenes. Their exit will air this summer on ITV.

ON STAGE: Riches

Bradley Babies

BRADLEY Riches has been left holding the baby in his latest role.

The Celebrity Big Brother contestant is starring in new stage musical Babies, which is about a group of classmates who are tasked with parenting robot dolls.

It's running at The Other Palace in London until July 14.

HEALTH WARNING

NURSE Cam Mickelthwaite is set to hit rock bottom on Casualty.

The character, played by Barney Walsh, will suffer a raft of setbacks.

And we'll see things get so bad that one day on the job, he is left wanting to quit.

Show favourite Barney said: "By the end of the shift, so much has happened in that short space of time that he questions whether he's good enough and strong enough.

"It's a gruelling and taxing job, and you have to be a strong person to face death and destruction every day and still have a smile on your face."

The show continues on Saturday at 8.20pm on BBC One.

Series to be best catch yet

MORE GONE FISHING

PAUL Whitehouse and Bob Mortimer have signed up to make another Gone Fishing series.

They will be reuniting within months to start filming new episodes of the BBC Two hit.

And they'll be visiting locations that have a special meaning to them.

A show insider said: "This series will have even more of a personal edge, with each fishing location chosen by its relevance to Paul or Bob personally, following the broad journeys of their lives."

The pair can't wait to start filming the six-part run.

Bob said: "I'm looking forward to visiting old haunts from my younger years as Paul and I will be travelling back in time for this series, going to fish in places which shaped our lives."

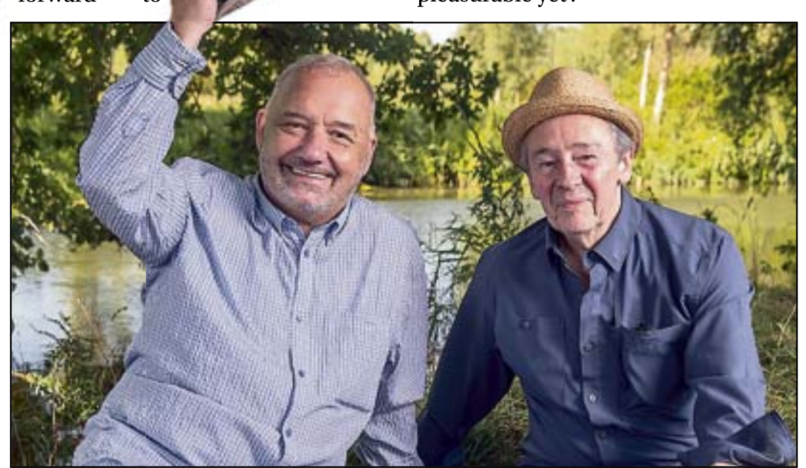

Paul joked: "I can't wait to get back to Gone Fishing with that other bloke in tow."

The show has already been on screens for almost six years.

But bosses are convinced the next series will be the best yet.

The BBC's commissioning editor Patrick McMahon said: "We're so happy to welcome Paul and Bob back for another slice of fishing, friendship and riverbank philosophy.

"Spending time in their company is always a treat and this series promises to be the most personal and pleasurable yet".

SCREAM ★★★ (2022) Film4, 9pm
A maniac attacks high-school student Tara Carpenter (Jenna Ortega) in her family home. Older sister Sam (Melissa Barrera) races to her sibling's hospital bedside with boyfriend Richie (Jack Quaid) in tow. It's not long before seasoned survivor Sidney Prescott (Neve Campbell), TV reporter Gale Weathers (Courteney Cox) and former sheriff Dewey Riley (David Arquette) are drawn into the latest nightmare.

ALAN PARTRIDGE: ALPHA PAPA ★★★★★ (2013) BBC3, 9pm Steve Coogan's return has a plot that sees radio station North Norfolk Digital being taken over by new owners – and one of their first actions is to sack Alan's fellow DJ Pat (Colm Meaney). Pat responds to the news by storming into the studio with a shotgun and taking hostages. When the police enlist Alan as a negotiator, he turns the situation to his own advantage.

HotTV CHOICE With Mike Ward

Back tonight for its 19th series (yes, really) we have THE SUPERVET: NOEL FITZPATRICK (8pm, Channel 4). And to kick it off there's a Rescue Special, looking at some of the cases Noel has handled in the 10 years his show has been on air.

All too often, these have involved animals who, sometime in the past, have suffered appalling abuse. It's not just distressing, it actually makes you want to find whoever's responsible and give them a taste of how it feels (although this would be unwise from a legal perspective, so, hey, best not).

Tonight, for instance, we recall the case of rescue whippet Wobble from 2015. Wobble was brought to Noel's surgery with a compression fracture in her neck, believed to be the result of someone having hit her.

There's also German Shepherd Bran, so horrifically mistreated in his early life that after he was rescued he had to have one of his hind legs amputated. When Bran was brought to Fitzpatrick's in 2019, his remaining back leg was badly affected by hip dysplasia. Noel's solution was a custom total hip replacement, unprecedented on a three-legged dog. But it was a procedure that he knew not every vet would agree with.

Other animals featured tonight include seven-week-old kitten Pretzel, who was abandoned at a vet's surgery, a congenital deformity having left her with severely twisted back legs.

So, yes, it's emotionally challenging telly, to say the least. But you know that by now. Just have a stiff drink or six beforehand.

JUST JANE

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY ... AND EVERY DAY

Bonking while I do work

I'M struggling to concentrate at work.

My best work pal is sleeping with one of the senior management team.

She can do what she likes but I'm (unwillingly) involved as she keeps telling me all the gory details.

They creep into an unused office every afternoon for sneaky sex. They're gone for at least two hours, and it's left to me to cover.

More than once, I've had to tell a made-up story to the managing director, and I don't like lying.

All of us know about the affair. Everyone's talking about them and calling them names, but I'm the one in the direct firing line and I don't like it.

What should I do?

JANE SAYS: You have to start protecting yourself.

Tell your colleague that you want no part of this nonsense and you won't be the look-out for anyone.

If she thinks it's appropriate to have sex in the afternoon, that's got nothing to do with you.

The reality is that this scandal will come out. Someone will give themselves away because they always do.

Stay strong and know your own mind because you owe your colleague absolutely nothing.

House of horrors is destroying us

& FELLA IS BUSY BOOZING

DIY DISASTER: She is left picking up the bills as her guy drinks with the neighbours

OUR house is a filthy money pit.

We've ripped out wardrobes, walls and kitchen units. We've chipped off tiles, ripped up carpets and thrown away curtains.

All we have left is a draughty shell. My partner is supposed to be doing it up, but he's lost his way. I'm currently crashing with my parents because I have a full-time job and need somewhere clean to sleep.

I'm the only one working full time and I'm paying all the bills.

I go round to the house to find my partner and his brother playing video games or drinking with the neighbours. They don't know where to start renovating.

Sadly, I don't have the skills to fix anything. As a consequence, our relationship is in freefall.

I can't respect him for wasting time and not having a proper plan. In return he says I'm a nag. He says it'll "all be done in good time" but we're now 18 months down the line.

What really worries me is that the people next door are serious swingers and party animals. He's allowing himself to be distracted by them. He is supposed to be putting our place back together, but he doesn't do anything all day except have fun. I wouldn't be surprised if he's cheating on me. Why am I slogging my guts out when he just doesn't care? I can't share any of this with my parents because they've never liked him. They're itching to get round there for a nosey, but how can I begin to explain that it looks a million times worse than when I bought it?

JANE SAYS: Your fun-loving partner has to understand what needs to be done around the house during the day.

It's vital you get back to the drawing board and come up with a whole new set of rules.

Write a list if he doesn't understand how a refurbishment works. Do you know any building professionals who can help?

Then there are the dos and don'ts. No booze, no neighbours and no shirking. If he really is having sex with the people next door, then that is serious. What about your feelings and your sexual health? Tell him you have to know what is going on in order to protect yourself.

Warn him that if he is having an affair and the trust is broken, then you'll have to think long and hard about staying with him. I wouldn't be inclined to hide anything from your parents, because that will only add more stress to your current situation. Remember that they love you and you need all the practical help they can give you.

In the long term, however, you need to discuss what your partner's plans are regarding a full-time job. Can he retrain? Go into further education? Thrash this out.

You've got to be honest with your man, because if this arrangement isn't working out, then your relationship is going to lurch into an even deeper crisis – or is it actually there already?

Sad that lad was dumped

OUR daughter went out with a lovely chap for four years.

Now they've broken up and we're devastated.

We feel like we are in mourning because we never got to say goodbye.

Our daughter already has a new boyfriend. My husband is furious and won't let the new lad into the house because we still miss her ex so much.

Our daughter says that we're ridiculous, that this is her life and we're behaving like babies. I hate the atmosphere in our home. Where should my loyalty lie?

JANE SAYS: Our children bring friends and partners into our homes. Some of whom we like, some of whom we don't.

They quickly become a part of the family. But when friendships or relationships end, we don't get a chance to say "goodbye".

It feels very unfair, but your daughter's ex was never your pal. All you can do is accept that we don't always get the conclusions we'd like.

Maybe you should resolve not to invest so much emotion in your daughter's next relationship.

Hopefully your husband will come round in time.

Make her save for health trip

OUR entitled granddaughter wants to go abroad to wash elephants and thinks we should pay. She's dropped out of university after making zero effort and doing no work.

She fancies travelling abroad until she fathoms out what she wants to do next. She thinks such a trip will be good for her general health. How is this our problem?

JANE SAYS: Stay strong and resist the urge to give in. What's wrong with her getting a job and, here's the shocking bit, saving up?

Clearly her parents have decided not to fund her dream so why should you? How is she ever going to achieve anything without hard work?

WHAT A FLOP HE IS!

DAY 4

CONTINUES TOMORROW

RUSSELL GRANT

DON'T MISS RUSSELL EVERY DAY IN THE DAILY STAR

ARIES
March 21 to April 20

YOU cannot and should not allow a relative to expect you to be there for them all of the time. You have your own problems to sort out and you just don't want to be caught up in anyone else's business. This does not make you uncaring.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3801*

TAURUS
April 21 to May 21

IN a contentious situation you are starting to question who exactly is wrong and who is right. Something you have been told is causing you sleepless nights. Were you given the truth or is someone deliberately trying to deceive you?

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3802*

GEMINI
May 22 to June 21

YOU might get a hint, early on, of possible problems you hadn't been prepared for. This will be regarding a situation where there is no turning back and one way or another you will need to find a way around this particular hurdle.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3803*

CANCER
June 22 to July 23

YOU can no longer bury your head in the sand. It is time to get a grip on reality. You need to discuss what is going on. Besides, it will be easier in the long-run to face up to issues that are causing problems and to encourage others to do the same.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3804*

LEO
July 24 to August 23

IT'S annoying that you are the one who loses out due to another person's duplicity. A friend or colleague let you down and their excuses do not ring true. No matter what you are doing, you have a sixth sense that will help you through. Trust your intuition.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3805*

VIRGO
August 24 to September 23

A WORKMATE who keeps interfering in a job you are working on will insist they are trying to help. You are suspicious of their motives. You also suspect they aren't being entirely honest and that's why you will keep your wits about you.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3806*

LIBRA
September 24 to October 23

BE careful about how much of your own situation you reveal to others when talking to people you hardly know. It will pay to be discreet. An opportunity or offer needs official confirmation. Keep both feet planted firmly on the ground.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3807*

SCORPIO
October 24 to November 22

CONFLICT can be avoided if you trust your intuition. You'll sense other people's moods as soon as they step into a room. It won't be hard to realise it would be wise to give someone a wide berth. You can catch up with them when they are in better spirits.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3808*

SAGITTARIUS
November 23 to December 21

SUPPORT from someone in authority over a business arrangement or a matter of a more personal nature should make your life easier in the future. Developments in a new career venture will give you something to be pleased about.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3809*

CAPRICORN
December 22 to January 20

PROBLEMS with teeth or aching bones could be affecting your health. If a prescription is not giving you any relief, schedule another appointment with a medical professional. It's important for you to be proactive about aches and pains.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3810*

AQUARIUS
January 21 to February 19

EXPERIMENT with creative ideas. If you want to develop your skills, you need to accept that you will make mistakes. Travel plans will go without a hitch. Are you single? You just want to have fun rather than look for a steady date.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3811*

PISCES
February 20 to March 20

YOU'RE ready to go forward with ideas that have already been discussed to start on a home-improvement project. You know already that despite the cost and all the work that's going to be involved, this will be a worthwhile long-term investment.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3812*

Calls cost 80p per minute plus your telephone company's network access charge – maximum of five minutes duration. You must be over 18 and have the bill payer's permission. Service Provider: Spoke. Helpline: 0333 202 3390

Big Guineas showdown

■ by DAVID YATES

METROPOLITAN will clash with fellow Guineas heroes Notable Speech and Rosallion at Royal Ascot on Tuesday after being supplemented for the St James's Palace Stakes.

The Mario Baratti-trained colt fended off the late challenge of Dancing Gemini by half a length to capture the Poule d'Essai des Poulains at Longchamp last month.

And, after watching the son of Zarak work in Chantilly yesterday, Baratti committed Metropolitan to crossing swords with 2,000 Guineas winner Notable Speech and Rosallion, who followed a second at Newmarket by going one better in the Irish version.

"He's running against the two best milers in Europe at the moment but he's gaining in maturity, so I'm looking forward to seeing how good he is," said Baratti.

MURPHY'S LUCK

RAM RAID: Ramatuelle is highly fancied for the Coronation Stakes

Oisin gets Ramatuelle ride at Royal meet

■ by DAVID YATES

OISÍN MURPHY has landed the plum ride on 1,000 Guineas third Ramatuelle in the Coronation Stakes at Royal Ascot tomorrow week.

Aurélien Lemaître has ridden the Christopher Head-trained daughter of Justify on each of her seven career starts.

But Lemaître's Guineas ride on Ramatuelle – the French raider, who attempting a mile for the first time – was committed for home two furlongs before being overhauled close home by Elmalka and Porta Fortuna, which drew criticism from some quarters.

And Murphy has been drafted in for the mount in the fixture's Friday feature.

"She obviously ran well in the Guineas as we all saw," said the Irishman. "It's a competitive race, the Coronation Stakes – there are five or six in there who have a great chance to win.

"But my horse was very good at two and has done nothing wrong this year.

"It's nice to get on her and obviously if I can get her to relax she should be bang there.

"You are climbing all the way but obviously the turn gives me a chance to get a breather into her and that's a help.

"I haven't sat on her before but we've all seen plenty of her and she's got the necessary form in the book."

Murphy will also get the leg-up on Guineas fourth Tamfana in the Prix de Diane at Chantilly on Sunday.

Jamie Spencer was on board when Tamfana endured a troubled passage before flying home at Newmarket but trainer David Menuisier said: "Jamie did absolutely nothing wrong.

"I always made it clear to Jamie's agent that whenever Oisín is available he would ride the horse – it's nothing to do with the ride in the Guineas."

HEAVEY'S NAP

MAYS HILL (9.00 Worcester) was unlucky in running when fifth on her handicap bow at Market Rasen three weeks ago looks ready to finally land that elusive first victory over hurdles after previously winning a bumper.

BEST EACH-WAY

EPSOM FAITHFULL (4.30 Newbury) was in fine form on the all-weather at Lingfield earlier this year, winning twice. A repeat of anything like that on turf can put the mare in the frame here at long odds.

KEY TO THE CARDS: our racecards are designed to give you a better, easier to understand guide to the runners. Brackets after the racecard number indicate the draw in Flat races. In the form figures, an 'L' indicates the horse finished in last place and a # indicates Bumper form. Figures in brackets after each horse's name indicate the number of days since the horse last ran. (C) indicates a course winner, (D) indicates a winner over the same distance as today's race. (B) or (V) indicates that the horse wears blinkers or a visor. (T) indicates that the horse wears a tongue strap. * indicates if wearing blinkers or visor for first time. (P) indicates that the horse is wearing a Cheek Piece. (BF) stands for beaten favourite. (F) is winner on firm going, (G) on good going, (S) on soft going and (A) on the all weather. The figures in the last column after the jockey's name is an exclusive Clockform rating giving a guide to the horse's chance. The highest figure denotes the top rated, which is also pinpointed by a ★.

BETFRED CHALLENGE CUP

Leeming sure he is on to a winner at Wigan

KRUISE CONTROL

EXCLUSIVE

■ by DAVE CRAVEN

CHALLENGE CUP winner Kruise Leeming has thanked Wigan for improving his character and warned their trophy grabbing is not over.

Fresh from Wembley glory against Warrington, the champions resume their Super League title defence at Castleford tomorrow.

Wigan have become the first club since St Helens in 2007 to hold all four major pieces of silverware concurrently.

Leeming, who joined from Gold Coast in the autumn, scored when they defeated NRL premiers Penrith in February's World Club Challenge.

And now he has added another Cup winners' medal to the one he picked up when helping Leeds beat Salford at an empty Wembley in 2020.

There were 64,845 people in attendance on Saturday as Matt Peet's side continued their domination.

Leeming said: "It's just good to be a part of this culture and team.

"People won't believe me but, regardless of the result, we deserved to be in the final.

"The lads we've got and the culture Matty's created, we deserved to be there.

"Sometimes I've been in teams who have had success where maybe they did not deserve it.

"It's a weird thing to talk about. Some people won't grasp what I'm saying – it's not just on the field, it's off it.

"This club has made me a better person off the field and to win trophies is one thing but to have continued success through a long period of time is another.

"The way you get it is deeply rooted inside you. It's not by luck. I think that's what we've created here, a team full of champion people and it's transferred to the field."

Leeming, who lost the captaincy and his starting spot under Rohan Smith at Leeds before requesting a release last March, played 10 games for Gold Coast. But he returned home after signing a four-year deal with Wigan, a decision which now looks fully justified.

Leeming has been ever-present, starting off the bench in all but one game and scoring six tries in 14 outings.

It would be no surprise if he earned his first England cap against France later this month.

Leeming, who started out at Huddersfield in 2013 when they finished top, was a beaten Grand Finalist with Leeds two years ago.

But he added: "I've been searching for this culture and feel my morals align with Matty and Wigan as a town and club.

"I've been welcomed in as one of their own. It can be a hostile environment. Even a champion environment is hostile. But if you're challenged in the right way, it brings the best out of you.

"My decision was a big one, to come back from Australia.

"But I was 27, getting to the prime of my career, and the factors in making the decision were, 'What's going to make me a better player, firstly, but also what's going to make me a better person?'. That narrowed it down to no other club but Wigan.

"I knew it'd be good. I backed my own decision but they've exceeded my expectations."

■ CATALANS have confirmed the signing of St Helens and England winger Tommy Makinson, 32, on a two-year deal from next season.

Brits eye face-off

■ by NEIL SQUIRES

KATIE BOULTER remains on course for a 'Battle of the Brits' with Emma Raducanu at the Rothesay Open – a year after taking her British No.1 spot.

The defending champion eased through to the quarter-finals in Nottingham after beating Canadian qualifier Rebecca Marino 6-4 6-3.

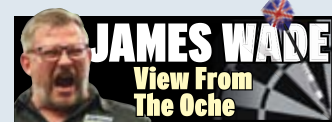

With Raducanu – down to No.6 in Britain – in the same half of the draw, the pair could meet in a semi-final this weekend.

Boulter first has to overcome the winner of today's match between Magdalena Frech and Tatjana Maria, while Raducanu faces world No.127 Daria Snigur today.

■ JACK DRAPER is through to the quarter-finals of the Stuttgart Open after beating Andy Murray's conqueror Marcos Giron in three sets.

BLACKPOOL'S BRIGHT LIGHTS CALLING

WE ARE in the final stages of the race for the World Matchplay – and thankfully I feel in the box seat to secure my place.

There are just a handful of events left to seal a spot at Blackpool and there are positive signs in my game.

I'm on my way home from Hildesheim in Germany from a round of Players Championship events this week and I played well.

I beat a resurgent Mensur Suljovic, who had beaten Michael Smith in the previous round, and Damon Heta, who is always a handful in those floor events.

I was annoyed that I did not get to the semi-finals after leading 3-1 against Daryl Gurney (inset) but my doubles were on point for most of the day and I took out big finishes when I needed to – exactly what I want to see at this stage.

The good news is I have qualified for the Euro Tour event next weekend, which puts me in a good position for Matchplay qualification, but I am sure it will get twitchy along the way.

It always gets a bit nervy in the race for Matchplay places, which is why it is important to secure your spot based on your world ranking.

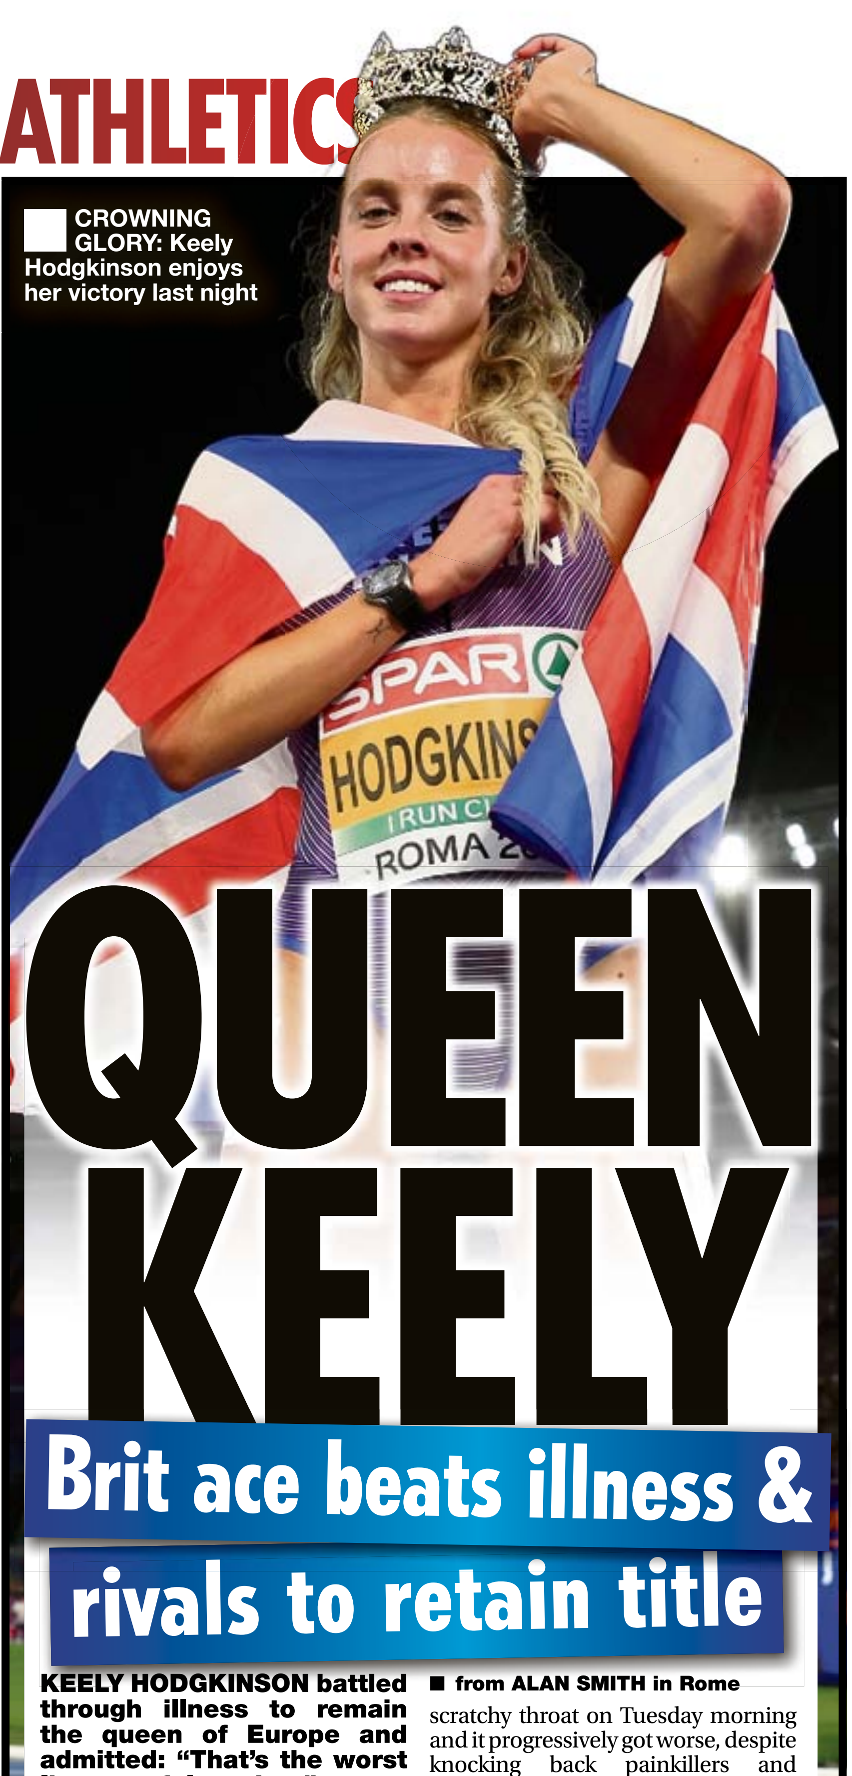

Talking of nerves, can you imagine playing football in front of a crowd of people while having your technique judged by Kenny Dalglish?

Well, that is what happened to me and fellow pro Robert Thornton at a Jewson Live event in Glasgow this week.

After playing darts – which Kenny skilfully avoided trying his hand at – we took on a football-darts challenge with a giant dartboard and all while being coached by the Liverpool icon.

I am pleased to say I won, much to the annoyance of the Glasgow locals.

CROWNING GLORY: Keely Hodgkinson enjoys her victory last night

QUEEN KEELY

Brit ace beats illness & rivals to retain title

KEELY HODGKINSON battled through illness to remain the queen of Europe and admitted: "That's the worst I've ever felt racing."

■ from ALAN SMITH in Rome

The 22-year-old Brit led from the outset to win a second continental 800m gold in 1min 58.65secs.

While the manner of her victory was not as convincing as anticipated, it emerged that she had spent much of the day thinking about withdrawing because of a virus.

"It's not been the greatest 24 hours," Hodgkinson said. "I would have liked a better time but it was just about finding a way to win."

With a personal best four seconds faster than the field, she was priced up at 1/33 on by bookmakers.

And her confidence was so high that, in advance of the heats on Monday morning, she indicated this was about challenging herself more than being challenged by the competition. Then she began to feel a scratchy throat on Tuesday morning and it progressively got worse, despite knocking back painkillers and vitamin C to soothe her symptoms.

"I had been umming and ahing about racing all day," she added. "But hopefully it's been worth it."

From lane seven, Hodgkinson started quickly because "I knew they'd have to catch me" and she was on 1:51.5 pace at 200m. The chasing pack, led by bronze medallist Anais Bourgoin, did their best to keep tabs.

But Hodgkinson, much like her illness, could not shake them off.

A winning margin of only 0.14secs had to be enough as Slovakia's Gabriela Gajanova closed hard for silver.

The expectation remains that she will win another Olympic medal in Paris to add to her silver from Tokyo.

And she sounded a warning shot to her rivals by saying: "I feel I'm in the shape of my life, I've just got to get rid of this thing."

Dina Asher-Smith got her second gold as she helped the British women's 4x100m relay team to victory.

Desiree Henry, Amy Hunt and Daryll Neita joined Asher-Smith and the quartet looked imperious as they led from gun to tape by posting Europe's leading time this season of 41.91secs.

merchant Sleightholme doubled his team-mates' gains in just over a month before reining it in, landing at a fighting weight of 92kg, after he lost pace.

Sleightholme (inset) said: "I put on eight kilos – I went from 90 kilos to 98 kilos in five weeks.

"It was just loads of gym, loads of eating, basically. The strength and conditioning coaches were all like, 'Well done for doing it', but I was like, 'I can't play this heavy, it's not going to work'. The turning is the difficult bit. When you're a bit heavier, turning and moving and changing direction, that's when you feel it.

"There is a fine line between being too big and being in a good spot.

"At the start of the year, I was probably a bit too bulked up. Then, through the year, I found where I needed to sit with my body and then got into a rhythm."

Sleightholme's sprinting is now well up to scratch, but the flier admits he has pushed that too far in the past as well.

He added: "I've got the balance wrong in previous years and it has ended up in injuries.

"It's about keeping yourself fit and keeping yourself on the pitch."

YOU MUST BE JOSHING!

Mott hopes Hazlewood 'fix' threat is just a wind up

■ from RORY DOLLARD in Antigua

MATTHEW MOTT believes Josh Hazlewood was probably joking when he claimed Australia might 'fix' England's World Cup exit.

Hazlewood put the boot in after helping Australia effectively seal qualification for the Super 8s with a top bowling performance in a comfortable win over Namibia.

Admitting the Aussies had endured "some real struggles" against England in T20 cricket, he added: "If we can get them out of the tournament, that's in our best interest as well as probably everyone else's."

The fast bowler added that Australia might "knock it around and drag it out" in the final group match against Scotland to boost their opponents' net run rate and usher England towards elimination.

But England coach Mott, an Australian who coached Hazlewood during their time together at New South Wales, believes his old player was just teasing.

"I know Josh pretty well and I know his integrity," he said. "He's got a very good sense of humour. I am hoping it was very much tongue in cheek. I don't think it is ever going to play out.

"Having grown up in Australia, and the will to win every game, I am sure they will come to the fore. I am very much hoping it was an off-hand remark by a really good bloke who is having fun."

England must beat Oman and Namibia and can only qualify for the Super 8 on net run rate, which leaves their fate in Australia's hands in the final Group B fixture with Scotland.

Australia will have to be mindful of ICC code of conduct rules, however, which reads: "Article 2.11 is intended to prevent the manipulation of international matches for inappropriate strategic or tactical reasons."

Mott was eager to move on from the sideshow, well aware that it would become an irrelevance should England fail to do their part.

"That's all we can do, regardless of any outside noise. We've got to win this game," he added.

"If we get in a dominant position and can push hard, we will. But if we have to scrap and fight to get the two points, we will as well.

"The challenge ahead is something we're excited by. We're not daunted by it, we're excited. That's genuine."

Australia needed just 34 balls to reach their 72-run target against Namibia after Hazlewood dismissed both openers. Travis Head then hit 34 runs off 17 balls as Australia made their target with one wicket down.

GAME FOR A LAUGH: Josh Hazlewood thunders in yesterday and (below) Matthew Mott talking to Chris Jordan

I'M ROOT-ING FOR JOS

JOE ROOT has thrown his support behind under-fire Jos Buttler and backed England's captain to lead them into the Super 8s.

England's defeat to Australia has left them facing a battle to make the knockout stages.

And after last year's dismal defence of their 50-over World Cup crown, it has piled the pressure on captain Buttler.

But former Test skipper Root is confident Buttler (inset) can guide England into the latter stages, starting with victory in their crunch clash with Oman today.

Asked if Buttler should stay on as skipper, Root said: "Jos is one of my good friends.

"He's a brilliant captain, so I don't think there's any question.

"They'll be absolutely fine, they've got a wonderful squad of players.

"They know exactly what they need to do. When it's all laid out and they have got their backs to the wall, which they have in this situation now, is when they play their best cricket.

"It could bring the best out of them, so I have got no worries.

"If they go out and do what they all know they're capable of, we'll be finding ourselves in the Super 8s and the back end of the tournament, where it really matters to play our best stuff."

Scheffler not scared of being the man to beat

SCOTTIE SCHEFFLER is not concerned by any target on his back as the world No.1 prepares to tee off at the US Open alongside Rory McIlroy.

■ from ANDREW GAMBLE in Pinehurst

The two-time Major champion arrived in North Carolina on the back of five victories since March, including a second Masters triumph.

Despite a dramatic arrest at last month's PGA Championship, Scheffler still tied for eighth – leading McIlroy to playfully suggest that, 'Going to jail for an hour' was the only way to stop the American.

The 27-year-old is in scintillating form and eyeing a first Major away from Augusta.

But with the field chasing him after his win at The Memorial last week, Scheffler dismissed the notion of a target on his back.

He said: "When we start the tournament week, we're all at even par and it's not like anybody is out there playing defence.

"When I play with Xander (Schauffele) and Rory here Thursday and Friday, they're not going to be saying weird stuff to me out on the golf course or trying to block my putt from going in the hole.

"We all have to go out there and play our game. As far as a target on my back, even if there was, there's really not much we can do in the game of golf. Most of it is against the golf course and playing against yourself.

"I'm not thinking about my wins any more. All I'm focused on is this week and getting ready to play. Just because I won last week doesn't give me any shots against the field this week."

Meanwhile, McIlroy declared he wants to play "boring golf" at Pinehurst No. 2 this week in order to contend for his first Major title since the 2014 Open.

But his preparations were anything but boring after he reconciled with wife Erica Stoll, scrapping divorce plans.

Following the dramatic U-turn, McIlroy said: "There have been rumours about my personal life recently, which is unfortunate. Responding to each rumour is a fool's game.

"Over the past weeks, Erica and I have realised that our best future was as a family together. Thankfully, we have resolved our differences and look forward to a new beginning."

Scheffler, McIlroy, and Schauffele tee off their quest for US Open glory together today.

FRAN: I'M DOING IT FOR NAN

FRANCESCA HENNESSY is keeping the family name in the boxing business and ensuring she is doing it for her late nan.

■ by CHRIS McKENNA

She takes the next step she hopes is on the ladder to the top on the undercard of Chris Billam-Smith's WBO cruiserweight title defence against Richard Riakporhe this weekend.

Hennessy, 19, is the daughter of well-known promoter-turned manager Mick, who guided the careers of the likes of Carl Froch, Tyson Fury and, most recently, Savannah Marshall.

"My mum wasn't too fond on me boxing," said Hennessy (inset).

"My dad knew I had talent, but he didn't want me to be involved because he knows how hard this sport is.

"I told him I've got a passion for it.

"My dad said, 'If this is your dream, I'll help you, but you need to be 100 per cent because you can't mess around in a sport like boxing'.

Hennessy, who faces Poland's Dorota Norek at superbantam-weight, has ambitions of being an undisputed champion and potentially the youngest ever.

She has her nan, Joan, as inspiration. She passed away during the training camp for this fight.

"My nan was my best friend," added Hennessy. "During camps I would go see her and have a cuppa. The week after my fight we would eat loads of food together. It's been tough but it has given me inspiration to go do it in her name."

Jury is still out despite the great Ten Hag escape

■ by JEREMY CROSS

MOST people feel a bit down and depressed when returning from holiday.

But Erik ten Hag must have been all smiles instead, having headed home from Ibiza to discover he still had a job.

Ten Hag will have a tweaked role at Manchester United next season.

It is understood he will become head coach instead of manager, while his influence in terms of player recruitment will be diluted.

But ultimately, the Dutchman is still in charge of the United team. He's got what he wanted.

How he did it appears to be one of his greatest achievements since becoming United boss in 2022.

The squad have been left stunned by Sir Jim Ratcliffe's decision to stick by Ten Hag, after all of the rumours they were looking for a new man following an eighth-placed finish in the Premier League.

But it appears Ten Hag struck gold when he got his hands on some silverware in United's final game, which has proven to have handed him a lifeline.

Ratcliffe, who now runs all football operations at United, looked on impressed as his team outplayed the great Manchester City in the FA Cup final.

But it wasn't the result which resonated most with Ratcliffe and his right-hand man Sir Dave Brailsford. It was the manner in which Ten Hag outthought Pep Guardiola, deploying tactics which left the Spaniard completely flummoxed.

Ratcliffe also regarded United's thrilling victory over Jurgen Klopp's Liverpool in the FA Cup quarter-finals at Old Trafford as significant proof Ten Hag is capable of matching or bettering the best.

Now the challenge for him is to do this on a more consistent basis.

And he will have to do so with some signings which won't have been his choice.

United deal in the currency of trophies, and Ten Hag has now won two in his first two seasons at Old Trafford.

Ratcliffe made it clear when he spoke to certain members of the media in London earlier this year that United will continue to be judged on silverware.

While crippling injuries and some off-field problems not of Ten Hag's making weakened his hand, there is no escaping the fact he has also survived the sack because certain others couldn't be persuaded to replace him. Appointing Gareth Southgate remains Ratcliffe's ultimate choice, but doing so is problematic to say the least.

Southgate is currently masterminding England's assault on the Euros and, even if he is willing to accept the United job, he will wait until the end of the summer before deciding his next move.

Even though Ten Hag had hit the gold standard, it still did not stop United considering other candidates but they could not find their man.

Ratcliffe spoke to Thomas Tuchel, but the German told him he wasn't interested in going to United, while Mauricio Pochettino distanced himself from the job.

So the INEOS chief, following two weeks of talks with Brailsford, technical director Jason Wilcox and incoming CEO Omar Berrada, decided to stick instead of twist. It has to be said, taking so long to inform Ten Hag of the decision is negligent at best and disrespectful at worst.

The ex-Ajax boss will have to rebuild his trust in all of the above and ensure their working relationship grows.

He will also remain on trial, safe in the knowledge a poor start to next season will leave him back to square one – and battling to save his job again.

TOON'S TOUGH STANCE ON ASHWORTH

■ EXCLUSIVE by JEREMY CROSS

MANCHESTER UNITED have made a final offer of £3m in compensation to Newcastle for Dan Ashworth.

But Newcastle have rejected the bid out of hand and are holding out for closer to £15m.

The impasse has left the Premier League rivals at loggerheads when it comes to Ashworth's future.

And the only way it could be resolved is if Ashworth (left) instigates arbitration proceedings against his Newcastle bosses.

United co-owner Sir Jim Ratcliffe wants to appoint Ashworth as sporting director, as part of his on-going overhaul at Old Trafford.

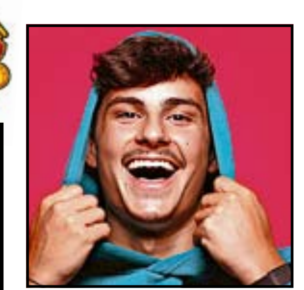

Ashworth has agreed a contract with United but has been left kicking his heels after being placed on gardening leave for 18 months in February, after telling Toon officials he wanted to leave.

Newcastle initially demanded £20m for Ashworth, which Ratcliffe laughed off as being "absurd".

Talks have taken place between the two clubs but United made it clear they were not prepared to pay more than £3m for the services of Ashworth.

United bosses have taken the stance that while Newcastle refuse to find a compromise, they will have to continue to pay Ashworth's wages for doing nothing.

Newcastle paid Brighton £2.6m in compensation for Ashworth back in 2022 and United believe this is the benchmark.

DONE DEAL: Gomes

Rodrigo 'perfect' for Gary

■ by NEIL MOXLEY

WOLVES have confirmed the capture of Rodrigo Gomes – with boss Gary O'Neil hailing the winger as "a perfect signing".

The Portugal Under-21 international follows Tommy Doyle through the doors at Molineux after agreeing a £12m switch from Braga.

Gomes, 20, has penned a five-year deal and Wolves have swooped following an impressive campaign on loan at Estoril, where he bagged nine goals and eight assists.

O'Neil said: "The type of player Rodrigo is, he's had a fantastic season, playing in many different positions and he's only 20.

"For where we are as a club, he's the perfect signing for us. He's young and he has potential.

"He's not proven at Premier League level yet but he's one we know we can get to that level.

"We can work with him and help him develop proving himself in the toughest league in the world.

"Every time I've watched him, his enthusiasm and endeavour have drawn my eyes towards him.

"I'm really pleased, he's a very good signing for us."

Liam in Cats KO

■ by IAN MURTAGH

LIAM ROSENIOR has delivered a damning snub to managerless Sunderland by pulling out of the race to take charge at the Stadium of Light.

The former Hull boss held lengthy talks with the Black Cats' hierarchy last week and had emerged as favourite to take over after the move to appoint Will Still collapsed this month.

But he has told the club he is no longer interested, leaving Sunderland no nearer finding a permanent replacement for Michael Beale, who was sacked in February.

Rosenior has not shed light on his about-turn, though it is understood he is on the shortlist to succeed Vincent Kompany at Burnley.

The Clarets are due to start interviewing for the vacant job at Turf Moor next week.

Mayhem of Ally's Army still bewilders Macari

EXCLUSIVE

■ by DAVID McDONNELL

LOU MACARI laughs as he recalls Scotland's over-zealous send-off to the 1978 World Cup.

Ally MacLeod's squad made their way to Argentina on a tidal wave of fervent patriotism and a misplaced belief the Tartan Army would return home as world champions.

"We had a reception at Hampden Park and an open-top bus to the airport," said Macari. "And that was just going to the World Cup!

"Everyone got hyped up and it definitely put pressure on us. We went there on the back of an unbelievable atmosphere in Scotland.

"People believed we could go there and actually win the World Cup!"

Despite such a fervent farewell, Scotland fell flat, losing to Peru, drawing with Iran and though beating Holland, ultimately failed to make the knockout stage, a pattern in all of the major tournaments they have reached.

This time, however, former Scotland star Macari is convinced Steve Clarke's squad can succeed – at the 12th time of asking – where their predecessors have failed, by progressing from the group stage at Euro 2024.

"This time it's more low key than 1978, when people believed Ally's Tartan Army could go all the way," he said.

"It was all because we'd beaten England – who didn't qualify for that World Cup – a year earlier at Wembley. That was enough to send you there with people thinking you could win it.

"We went with people believing we were an exceptional team. But that backfired, because there were more exceptional teams than us."

Scotland's bid for World Cup glory was doomed from the moment MacLeod (inset) and his players landed in Argentina for their short-lived stay.

"The hotel we were staying in wasn't an actual hotel, it had been converted from something else because of the World Cup," said Macari.

"It had a swimming pool, but there was no water in it, and when we arrived, they were still laying the carpets. To top it all, our bus broke down when we got there. So it didn't start well and didn't get much better!"

Clarke's side are unlikely to encounter such problems, after an impressive qualifying campaign that saw them beat Spain and Norway.

With a trio of Premier League stars in Liverpool's Andy Robertson, Aston Villa's John McGinn and Manchester United's Scott McTominay, Macari is convinced Scotland can make an impact in Germany.

"I certainly wouldn't dismiss Scotland doing better than before, simply because they've got individuals who can rise to the big occasion," said Macari, 75.

"Second place in the group would be a massive achievement. Germany are favourites to win the group, but Hungary and Switzerland don't have household names in their squads.

"I think Scotland go into that game on Friday with no fear, with all the pressure on Germany."

CAN CAN FILL THE GAP FOR NAGELSMANN

FORMER Liverpool midfielder Emre Can has been handed a late call-up to Germany's Euro 2024 squad as a replacement for Bayern Munich's Aleksandar Pavlovic.

Pavlovic has been forced to withdraw due to illness just two days before his country's opener against Scotland.

Pavlovic got his first cap this month in a 0-0 draw with Ukraine, but an infection ruled him out of Germany's 2-1 victory over Greece on June 7.

He was already set to miss the first match and it has now been confirmed that he will be unable to feature for the whole tournament.

Can (inset), who now plays for Borussia Dortmund, has been capped 43 times. "We decided to renominate Emre Can," said head coach Julian Nagelsmann.

"We wanted a player who has played a lot of games, who knows how to deal with the pressure.

"He can well meet the profile that we can use now."

DREAMS: Bradley

Double top for Bradley

■ by DAVID ANDERSON

CONOR BRADLEY is "buzzing" after ending his breakthrough season for Liverpool and Northern Ireland with his first senior double.

Bradley wrapped up his memorable campaign with both goals in Northern Ireland's friendly win over Andorra and he now has three in his last three internationals.

The defender also scored his first Liverpool goal against Chelsea in January and helped them win the Carabao Cup the following month.

Bradley, 20, is now relishing working with new Reds boss Arne Slot.

"My first Northern Ireland goal against Scotland was special and getting two in the one night against Andorra was special as well," he said.

"I'm buzzing and really happy. All my dreams came true in the past 12 months.

"It's been special and onwards to next season. We want to keep improving.

"It'll be good to switch off for two or three weeks and then I'll get back to it in pre-season and the whole cycle begins again.

"Hopefully we can get off to a good start."

Ronaldo looks up

■ by DARREN WELLS

CRISTIANO RONALDO has challenged Portugal to head into the Euro 2024 finals with their thoughts "in the sky" as they aim to repeat their 2016 success.

The 39-year-old led his country to European glory then and, having scored 10 goals in qualification, is keen to make an impact.

Ronaldo, who scored twice against the Republic of Ireland on Tuesday, said: "We have to have our feet on the ground and our thoughts in the sky dreaming of the European Championship."

ROARING DUNK

Lewis eager to drink in major tournament debut

■ from JOHN CROSS in Blankenhain

LEWIS DUNK admits he feared his chance of playing in a major tournament had gone.

But now the Brighton captain is determined to make the most of the Euros, with his whole family flying out to Germany to support him.

Dunk, 32, says he is a passionate England fan himself and would be watching and cheering them on if he had not been picked.

When asked whether he feared his chance had gone, Dunk said: "Of course, this was probably my last chance of getting to a tournament realistically. Now I am here enjoying the moment.

"I've watched a few tournaments all over the place. The last tournament was in my friend's garden in Eastbourne, I watched one abroad when I was younger, Portugal. I've chucked my beer in the air before – many times.

"I probably wouldn't have gone out as a fan, but I would have watched every game in a pub or my mate's house.

"My wife and kids are coming over. My mum and my dad will be there every game and then brothers and sisters, everyone like that, will be flying in and out for certain games.

"It's a proud moment for them. My kids are getting older now and starting to understand. My eldest is nine now and loves football.

"But I'm just his dad and I'm just doing what he does and playing football. It's nice to put a smile on my kid's face. Hopefully they have a good time."

Dunk is one of 12 players in the squad without tournament experience but insists he will be ready if called upon.

His inclusion caused some debate but Seagulls fans are passionate about their centre-half and leader. He would be a clear favourite to start if John Stones is not fit.

But that lack of experience, plus the absence of Harry Maguire and also the lingering fitness doubts over Luke Shaw, does raise concerns about the defence being a weak link.

Dunk also says that the treatment of Maguire has been a valuable life lesson about dealing with criticism.

He added: "It was incredible how he dealt with it all. Harshly treated I would say personally and the treatment he was getting from everyone was out of order.

"He took it on the chin and carried on like he always does."

He also claimed the Three Lions squad are not buying into the notion that the defence is vulnerable.

"Of course we are dismissing that," said Dunk. "That is your opinion and you are entitled to it, but inside the dressing room and inside the camp we are as confident as ever.

"Football is a game of opinions and the one that matters is the manager and he has picked me to be here."

WES BLAMES CITY FOR JACK SNUB

■ by AARON FLANAGAN

JACK GREALISH'S Euros snub is down to his lack of game time.

That's the verdict of former England defender Wes Brown, who reckons Three Lions boss Gareth Southgate will not have seen as much of Grealish this season as he would have liked.

The Manchester City forward was one of the surprise omissions from the Euro 2024 squad, with the likes of Newcastle's Anthony Gordon and Crystal Palace's Eberechi Eze getting the nod despite having less international experience.

Speaking on Reach's new Euro Thrash podcast (inset) – which you can find in YouTube, Apple and Spotify from today – Brown said: "He will be disappointed but it's down to his club. He hasn't started as many games as he would have liked to.

"I just feel the manager's gone with pace. If you look at Anthony Gordon in that Iceland game, you know he brings this attacking pace.

"Grealish plays a little bit differently. We know he likes to get on the ball early and then do his thing. You always want to prove to the manager and to everyone that the selection is wrong.

"And you do start the next season quicker and think, 'I'm going to show you what I'm about, I should have been selected or I'm going to be selected next time because I'm going to put everything into it'."

Jordan Henderson was also dropped from the England set-up after a turbulent season in both Saudi Arabia and Holland.

With the emergence of Jude Bellingham and Kobbie Mainoo, Brown thinks it was only right that former Liverpool skipper Henderson was left out altogether.

He said: "At some point you know that time will come where the younger players are going to be overtaking you."

Mystic Mug

He talks a load of crystal balls...

TODAY Jack Grealish goes on a three-day bender in Dubai after winning the treble. He beat his brother at Beer Pong, Ibble Dibble and Fuzzy Duck.

TOMORROW England supporters let themselves down in Germany as Euro 2024 kicks-off with the host nation taking on Scotland. Many are filmed at fan zones in angry confrontations with each other as they try to work out which team they want to lose.

SATURDAY Anthony Gordon (inset) is ruled ineligible for England's opening game due to an administrative cock-up. UEFA officials took one look at the Newcastle player's pasty face and registered him as a Scotland player.

SUNDAY Gareth Southgate becomes the hot favourite to one day succeed Erik cone Head as manager of Manchester United after England give up 24 shots in a 1-1 Euros opening draw with Serbia.

MONDAY Harry Kane's attempts to use his experience of living in Germany to organise a cultured night out with some of the veteran players in the England squad goes horribly wrong when, in his best German, he orders the taxi driver to fahrt (drive) and Kyle Walker promptly follows through.

TUESDAY New Fenerbahce boss Jose Mourinho (inset) plays down newspaper reports he is having a hard time trying to convince players to move to Istanbul. He claims: "Selling a giant Turkey is nothing new to me, I already did that at Tottenham."

WEDNESDAY Arsenal, Chelsea, Liverpool, Man United, Man City and Spurs are still pointless in the European Super League.

SERIOUSLY football EURO 2024

IN THE P-INK: Toney

Ivan has designs on trophy

■ by ANDY DUNN

EVEN by Premier League standards, Ivan Toney is one of the most inked players in football.

But the England star will find room for another tattoo if Gareth Southgate's men go all the way at Euro 2024.

"One hundred per cent," said the Brentford striker. "I'll get the trophy on my forehead or something!

"It goes without saying I'll have to get a little memorable one and hopefully it's a good one."

Toney was in irrepressible form at England's base camp yesterday, probably because he was uncertain about getting the nod for the final squad.

He admitted to BBC Radio Five Live: "It was touch and go. It was a tricky end of the season for myself, but I do believe in my ability and I believe that I've got something that I can add to the team.

"But the manager has seen the style of play that I can add to the team and, clearly, he thought it was enough to bring me.

"Now, I've just got to repay him every time I get a chance to be on the field and help the team as much as I can."

Hunting abusers

■ by JEREMY CROSS

THE FA have started funding police investigations into social media abuse of England stars.

A host of players have become the victims of online abuse in recent times, including racial discrimination.

And now the FA have started to finance a special unit in the British Police dedicated to prosecuting those responsible.

FA chief executive Mark Bullingham said: "Now we are doing things differently.

"We are actually funding within the British Police a unit that will then prosecute.

"We are actually paying for the prosecution to then happen, and funding the police to make sure if there are instances of some examples we have seen before, that they got prosecuted."

CAN YOU ADAM & EVE IT?

LIVING THE DREAM: Wharton in England training with Kobbie Mainoo

Wharton's England call a dream come true after meteoric rise

THE last time England were in the Euros, Adam Wharton was cheering them on from a tent in Blackburn.

Fast forward 36 months and Wharton's rise to stardom has been so rapid, he's now pitched up with the Three Lions squad itself.

It's safe to assume that back in 2021 Wharton didn't expect to be where he is now, as he watched England's agonising defeat to Italy on penalties in the Euros final at Wembley.

But no matter how far Wharton has come since then, the Crystal Palace midfielder is so laid-back it's difficult to work out if the reality of it all has hit him yet. He said: "My first England memory would probably be the 2010 World Cup – England versus Germany. That's the earliest I can remember.

■ from JEREMY CROSS in Erfurt

"The collared shirt, the red numbers on the front. Then for the Euros, for the final, I was actually staying in digs at Blackburn. There is a hotel/bar place around the corner. They had a tent up and a few were in there cheering the lads on.

"It's hard to describe what's happened, really. It's just a dream come true.

"Every kid who grows up playing football wants to play in the Premier League and for their country.

"I got to play for the team I support and really enjoyed that and it really continued with moving to the Premier League and now here. It's all very fast but I wouldn't want it any other way."

To describe Wharton's meteoric rise as 'fast' is quite an understatement.

In January, he was playing in a Blackburn side struggling in the Championship.

Five months later, via a move to Palace, and Wharton is part of an England squad – including the likes of Harry Kane and Jude Bellingham – who are favourites to win Euro 2024.

He made the final squad on the back of a cameo appearance on his debut in a 3-0 win over Bosnia and Herzegovina at St James' Park.

But Wharton, 20, is determined to remain humble and keep his feet on the ground, despite knowing a glittering career lies ahead of him. He even admits his parents were more pleased than he was when he made the squad, not least his dad John, a furniture maker and Blackburn fan through and through.

He added: "They were probably more happy than I was when I received the news.

"They were over the moon and just proud of how far I've come in a short space of time. They really enjoy watching the football and that just adds a bit more.

"They've been massive. I've got two older brothers and playing with them in the garden, they beat me up a few times.

"That all helps getting used to the physical side of the game. My dad gives me loads of advice. We're a very sporty family and all very supportive.

"That definitely helped me growing up. I wouldn't be here without them."

Nothing seems to faze Wharton, including starting the opening Group C game against Serbia, should Gareth Southgate pick him.

He added: "There are some unbelievable players but if I'm chosen to play, I'm more than ready.

"But whoever is on the pitch, I'm sure they will step up and perform and help the team get the result that we want."

FA CHIEFS ALREADY PREPARING FOR SOUTHGATE'S EXIT

THE FA have started planning for life after Gareth Southgate.

And they have not ruled out replacing Southgate as England boss with another foreign manager.

Southgate, who took over in 2016, revealed this week that Euro 2024 could well be his last major tournament in charge.

He has a contract until December and will sit down with FA bosses to discuss his future after the finals in Germany.

FA chief executive Mark Bullingham is desperate to keep the current Three Lions manager for as long as possible.

Southgate has been England's second most successful boss in history after Sir Alf Ramsey, after leading the Three Lions to a World Cup semi-final and Euros final.

■ by JEREMY CROSS

But Bullingham admits the FA need to accept Southgate might not be around much longer and has started considering who the next boss might be.

Bullingham said: "Gareth has been really, really clear that he wants to talk about this after the tournament.

"I don't want to provide any distraction for him and the team. What I will say is you know I think the world of Gareth.

"I think he's done a phenomenal job.

"You know we value him massively.

"I have said before that any organisation really has a succession plan in place for their top employees – and we are no different to that.

"We have that for top employees. Clearly, you plan lots of different scenarios for all your top employees all the time."

Bullingham insists no potential successors have been spoken to but refused to rule out the chances of the next boss not being homegrown.

He added: "We are sitting down after the tournament together and will talk about everything.

"I've had no approach about him.

"I want to focus on the here and now, focus on the tournament and get into all those questions at whatever point we need to in the future."

paces as they prepare for the physical threat of Serbia's former Fulham striker Aleksandar Mitrovic.

That meant Stones was not a part of that session and now England will have to wait to see if he can recover in time to train today.

It would be a major worry for England if Stones missed another day of training, with key defenders already ruled out.

Centre-back Harry Maguire was not fit enough to make the squad, while left-back Luke Shaw is not ready for the first game either.

Three Lions defender Lewis Dunk, who will be favourite to replace Stones, said: "He wasn't training because he had an illness. He felt a bit rough yesterday, so we haven't seen him.

"He didn't train today because of his illness."

Dunk said he would be ready to step in and added: "I would hope so. But you never know. There are a few days until Sunday.

"We've only trained twice this week. Today was a defensive session. I guess tomorrow might be more attacking and it will balance it out on both sides as we go through the week."

Defender suffers more ill fortune in build-up

JUNE BUG: England boss Gareth Southgate could be without John Stones on Sunday

JOHN STONES has emerged as a worry for England's Euros opener – just 24 hours after being given the all-clear.

■ from JOHN CROSS in Blankenhain

The defender was forced to sit out training yesterday due to illness and could not take part in any of the defensive drills ahead of Sunday's clash with Serbia.

Stones had been substituted at half-time of the final warm-up friendly with Iceland last Friday after an injury scare.

But he then took part in the first training session on Tuesday, only for it to later emerge that he had been feeling unwell even then.

WAYNE ROONEY has told Trent Alexander-Arnold he doesn't have the discipline to play in England's midfield.

The Liverpool star is expected to be named alongside Declan Rice in the Three Lions' starting line-up for their opening Euros clash against Serbia in Gelsenkirchen on Sunday.

But England legend Rooney insists Alexander-Arnold (inset) is incapable of defending and would leave Gareth Southgate's side too exposed.

He said on The Overlap: "I think he (Southgate) will go with Trent.

"He's probably the most gifted player with the ball at his feet we've got. Defensively he's all over the place. He can't defend.

"I wouldn't have him anywhere near the middle of the pitch. And I love Trent."
